Judith of the Plains

"Gentlemen—she spoke in a low, distinct voice—"Jim ain't here. He's been away from home five days. There's no one here but me and the children. You've come up and frightened them by pounding on the door. I ask you to go away."

"If he ain't here, will you let us search the house?" It was Henderson that spoke—Henderson, foreman of the XXX outfit.

"I can't have them frightened. Please take my word and go away."

"Was he matter, muvvy?" called Judith sleepily. Young Jim was by this time crying lustily. Only Topeka said nothing. With the precocity of a frontier child she had retained the truth. She tried to comfort little Jim, though her teeth chattered in fear and

"Gentlemen, I'm ready," she felt cold in the hot, still room. Then Judith called out, "Make papa send them away."

"Your papa ain't here, Judith." But the night had all gone out of Alida's voice. It was the groan of an animal in a trap.

"Where's papa gone to?"

"Sh-sh, Judith! Topeka, keep your sister quiet."

It was absolutely still within and without for a full minute. Then Alida heard the shoving of shoulders against the door. Once, twice, thrice the lock resisted them. The brown burman spun across the room like a child's toy. The lynchmen, bursting in, saw Alida with her arms around Jim. When the last hope had gone it was instinct with her to protect him with her own body.

"Go in to the kids, old girl; this is no place for you."

Something of the glory of old Chief Flying Hawk riding to battle was in the face of his grandson.

"Remember, the children ain't to know," he said to his wife. And to the lynchmen, "Gentlemen, I'm ready."

CHAPTER XVII.

ALIDA heard the mingled sounds of footsteps and hoofs grow fainter on the trail. The children looked at her to tell them why this night was different from all others—that was happening. But she could only cover among them, more terrified than they. She seemed to be shrunken from the happenings of that day. They hardly knew the little, shriveled gray woman who looked at them with unfamiliar eyes. Alida gazed at the little Judith, and there was something in her mother's glance that made the little one hide her face in her sister's shoulder. Young Judith it was who all unwittingly had told the lynchmen that her father was at home, and in Alida's heart there was toward this child a blind, unreasoning hate. Better had she never been born than live to do this thing!

It was the wee man, Jim, who first began to reflect resentfully on this intrusion on his slumbers. He had been sleeping well and comfortably when some growlups came with a lot of noise, and his father had gone away with them. It had frightened him, but his mother was here, and why should she not put him to sleep again?

"Muvvy, sing 'Dway Wolf'!" And as she paid no heed, but looked at him, white faced and strange, he again repeated, with his most insinuating and beguiling tricks of eye and smile:

"Muvvy, sing 'Dway Wolf' for Dimmy."

The child put his head in his mother's lap, and Alida began, scarce knowing what she did:

"The gray wolves are coming fast over the hill.
Run fast, little lamb; do not baa, do not bleat.
For the gray wolves are hungry; they come here to kill.
And the lambs shall be scattered—
No, no, Jimmy, muvvy cannot sing.
Oh, can't you feel, child? Judith, Judith, why were you ever born?"

It was still in the valley. Had they come to the dead cottonwoods yet? Had they begun it? The children shrank from this gray faced woman whom they did not know and but yet a little while had been their mother. An awful silence had fallen on the night. The range cattle no longer bellowed in their thirst; the hot wind no longer blew from the desert. A hush not of earth or air or the things that were of her ken seemed to have fallen about them, muffling the dark loneliness as by invisible flakes. The children had crouched close together for comfort. They feared the little gray faced woman who seemed to have stolen into their mother's place and looked at them with strange eyes.

Jimmy looked at the woman who held him, hoping his mother would come, and he could see them both. And while he waited he dropped off to sleep, and little Judith, hiding her head on Topeka's shoulder that she might not see the look in those accusing eyes, presently dreamed that all was well with her again, and Topeka reflected that if her mother should ask her in the morning whether she had dreamed last night she would have a fine tale to tell of men riding up and loud voices and trying of the door and father going away with them. Her mother had questioned her this morning when nothing had happened to warrant it. Surely she would ask again tomorrow, and Topeka could tell—she could tell—

The children were sleeping easily. The hush that had hung like a pall over the valley had not lifted. Had they done it? Was it over yet? She went to the door and listened. Surely the silence that wrapped the valley was a thing apart. It was as no other silence that she could remember. It was still, still, and yet there was vibration to it. Like the muffled roar within a shell. She strained her ears. Was that the sound of horsemen going down the trail? No, no, it was only the beating of her foolish heart that would not be still, but beat and fluttered and would not let her hear. Yes, surely that was the sound of hoofs. It was over then. They were going.

She would go and look for him. Perhaps it would not be too late. She had heard of such things. A dynamic force consumed her. She had no consciousness of her body. Her feet and hands did things with incredible swiftness—lighted a lantern, selected a knife, ran to the corral for an old ladder that had been there when they took possession of the deserted house—and through all her frantic haste she could feel this new force, as it were, lick up the red blood in her veins, burn her body to ashes as it gave her new power.

It was dark in the valley, but the menacing stillness seemed to be lifting. The range cattle had again taken up their plaint, the sounds of the desert night swept across the stony walls of the canyon. Alida knew that it must have happened at the dead cottonwoods. There were no other high treks about for miles. Again she listened before advancing. There was no sound of hoof or clamping bit or men moving quickly. They had gone their way into the valley. She ran swiftly, her lantern throwing its beam across the scrubby inequalities of ground, but for her there was no need of its beam. Tonight she was beyond the halting, stumbling uncertainties of tread to which man is subject. There was magic in her feet and in her hands and brain. Like the wind she ran, the wind on the great plain where there are no foothills to hinder its course. The black, dead trees stood out distinctly against the starry sky, and from a cross limb of one of them dangled something with head awry, like a broken jumping jack, something that had once been a man—and her husband. She could touch the feet of this frightful thing and feel its human warmth. A wind came up from the desert and blew across the canyon's rocky walls into the valley, and the parody of a man swayed to it.

She had been expecting this thing. For weeks the image of it had been graven on her heart. Sleeping or waking she had seen nothing but his dangled body from the cross limb. Yet with the actual consummation before her she felt its hideous novelty as though it were unexpected. At sight of it the force that had borne her up through the happenings of that day went out of her and as she stood with the knife and the rope that she had brought in the hope of cheating the lynchmen dangle from her nerveless hand her helplessness overcame her.

Far down the trail she could hear the gallop of a horse coming closer, and mingled with the sounds of its flying feet was a voice urging the horse to greater speed in the shrill cabalistic "Hi-hi-hi-hi!" of the plainsman. What was it? One of them returning to see that she did not cheat the rope of its due? To hang her beside him as an afterthought, as they hang of Kate Watson beside her man? Let them. She was standing near the rider swaying thing when horse and rider gained the ground beside her, and what was left to her of consciousness made out that the rider was Judith. She pointed to it and stood helpless with the dangle rope in her hand.

"Are we too late?" Judith almost whispered as she caught Alida's cold,

Something that had once been a man. Inert hands. "I dreamed it all and came. If I could have dreamed it sooner!"

Alida did not seem to hear, neither could she speak. She only pointed again to the thing beside her.

STRUCK THE ROCKS

Channel Steamer Lost With Great Loss of Life Off French Coast.

A TRAGEDY OF THE SEA

The Hilda, Tossed by Storm, Striving Ineffectually to Reach Port Is Cast Upon the Rocks.

But Five Were Saved Out of the More Than a Hundred Souls on Board.

London, Nov. 20.—The Southwestern Railway's cross-channel steamer Hilda was wrecked Sunday morning off St. Malo, on the north coast of France, and it is believed that 100 or more of her passengers and crew were drowned. The Hilda left Southampton Friday night for St. Malo with considerably more than 100 souls on board. Her passage was greatly delayed by a fog in the channel and when nearing St. Malo she ran into a severe snowstorm, apparently missed her course and foundered on the rocks off Jardin lighthouse, three miles from St. Malo. The company's steamer Ada, out ward from St. Malo, rescued five of the passengers and one of the crew. These are now on the way to Southampton. There is an unconfirmed report that seventy have been saved.

The crew numbered twenty-six and there were about a hundred passengers, all Frenchmen, the majority being onion dealers from St. Briac and neighborhood.

A telegram from St. Servan, adjoining the town of St. Malo, gives the few features available. The Hilda was near St. Malo Saturday morning. She struck the rocks at 4 o'clock Sunday morning in the roadstead off the island of Cezemore, having missed the tide owing to bad weather and fog.

The majority of the crew and passengers were asleep at the time. Two boats were lowered, one of which, containing five men, arrived at St. Servan. The second boat was picked up empty at St. Cast, where thirteen bodies were washed ashore. The top of the Hilda's funnel and her mast are visible at low tide, according to the telegram from St. Servan.

The Hilda was built at Glasgow in 1882 and registered 848 tons. She was a screw steamer of iron construction, 235 feet in length.

Report From St. Malo. St. Malo, France, Nov. 20.—The exact number of lives lost on the Hilda is unknown here. It is understood that there were about twenty first-class passengers, including several English people. Among the latter were the Hon. Mrs. Butler, sister of Lord Lanesborough, and Colonel Pollet. It is known that all the first-class passengers were drowned. These passengers were English officers and others who were coming to rejoin their families or to spend the season at St. Malo and Dinard, opposite St. Malo. It appears to be certain that only six were saved, these being five onion sellers and an English seaman named Crinter, and that the total on board, including the crew, numbered 105.

But Six Were Saved. London, Nov. 20.—The Southwestern Railway company is as yet unable to give a list of the Hilda's passengers, but they say that a score booked passage at stations between London and Southampton and that to the best of their knowledge ninety-nine were drowned and only six saved.

GRUESOME DISCOVERY

Missing Explorers Probably Fell Victims to Cannibals. Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20.—In a letter received by George W. Knox of this city the fate of Henry Miller and Gus Olinder, who left here on an expedition to Tiburon Island in the Gulf of California nearly a year ago and who have never been heard from, is probably disclosed. On the desolate shores of the Gulf of California near a deserted Indian village, a wandering herder has just found the trappings of Miller and Olinder, a book of nautical science which belonged to Capt. Olinder and a pair of dried human hands which may have been those of one of the unfortunate men. A few feet away was found the charred remains of a huge feast fire and circles of an Indian war dance. It is believed the men were slain by hostile Indians who inhabit this portion of Lower California.

A SPECTACULAR FIRE Big Pennsylvania Distillery Suffers a $4,000,000 Loss. Connellsville, Pa., Nov. 20.—At the A. Overholt distillery at Bradford Sunday $10,000 gallons of whisky furnished a spectacular fire entailing a loss of $4,000,000. The main bonded warehouse was burned to the ground. The A. Overholt company is one of the largest manufacturers of whisky in the world. The plant is practically owned by H. C. Frick and the Mellons of Pittsburgh. The burned building was one of four warehouses containing 18,000 barrels of whisky eight years old. Each barrel contained 45 gallons.

Later Reports From Vladivostok. Nagasaki, Nov. 20.—An eye-witness of the recent riot at Vladivostok, who has arrived here reports that nearly half the city was burned and that 600 of the garrison were killed, that the jail was thrown open and that General Kappke is missing. The damage is estimated at $25,000,000. Soldiers from Harbin are reported to have joined the rioters.

The Mikado Returns. Tokio, Nov. 20.—Emperor Mutsuhito returned here Sunday from the Shinto temples of Ise, where he went last Tuesday accompanied by the premier and other court dignitaries, to offer thanks to his ancestors for the successful termination of the war and the restoration of peace. His majesty was greeted with enthusiastic cheering. It is not customary for the populace to shout in the presence of the emperor.

EXPECTS TO LAY LOW

Senator Hemenway Merely Intends to Learn the Ropes This Session.

Indianapolis, Nov. 20.—Senator Jas. A. Hemenway, who has been at the Claypool hotel for the past three days, has returned to his home at Boonville, where he will remain for a few days, and will leave for Washington so as to arrive there about Thanksgiving. The senator has taken a house at 1423 Massachusetts avenue, and will "keep house" in Washington for the first time since he was elected a member of congress. His family will join him there after the holidays. He expects to return to Indiana before Christmas and will probably spend a fortnight here and at Boonville. He is coming back for the biennial party love-feast, for which Chairman Goodrich will soon issue a call.

Senator Hemenway, during his visit here, modestly declared that he merely expects to "lay low" during the coming session, so that he may get onto the ropes of his new position. It is likely, however, that he will not occupy an obscure position in the senatorial chambers, as there have been rumors that Senator Allison will ask that he be made a member of the senate committee on appropriations. Senator Hemenway was the youngest man to be appointed chairman of the house committee on appropriations, but Speaker Cannon regarded him as one of the best chairmen that ever held the important place. Just before he left Washington a few days ago Senator Hemenway was invited by President Roosevelt to help him read proof on his coming message to congress, but the senator refuses to discuss its contents before it is given to the public.

It would not be surprising if the Democrats at the state convention next year should declare for municipal ownership of public utilities, as a sentiment is growing throughout Indiana in favor of that idea. The recent municipal elections showed that there is a very large element at Terre Haute, Fort Wayne and other places favorable to a trial of public ownership, and at the meeting of the Municipal League of Indiana here last week several city officials expressed themselves strongly in its behalf. Whether or not they believe sincerely in it, some of the Democratic leaders are talking of taking it up and giving it a trial as the paramount issue of the coming state campaign, because they do not believe there is anything better in sight. Bryan, on his tour of the state last fall in behalf of Parker, sowed the seed in favor of government and municipal ownership, and the wave in its favor in the Chicago and New York city elections has convinced Democratic leaders that it might be a good rallying cry in this state.

State Fish and Game Commissioner Zack Sweeney and his chief deputy, E. E. Earle, are trying to prevent hunting on Sunday. Instructions have been issued to the deputy game wardens throughout the state to keep an eye open for the sportsmen who take to the fields on the Sabbath. During the quail season hundreds of men who work during the week days spend Sundays hunting, but a strict ban is to be placed on them. Several arrests have been made this week, and the commissioner hopes to break up the practice. Several thousand licenses have been issued to hunt during the quail season.

Senator Beveridge is devoting a great deal of his time to preparation for a renewal of the fight over the joint statehood bill which he championed during the last session of congress. When he leaves for Washington within the course of the next few days he will be ready to meet any proposition his opponents may put forth. He has prepared himself as carefully in this as in other important matters in which he has taken a prominent part during his senatorial career and is very confident that the bill will become a law before the end of the session.

Notwithstanding the promise of Congressman Elias Holliday of Brazil to retire at the end of his term if he is re-nominated next year, it has not given him a clear field in the Fifth district, as Otis H. Gully of Danville and State Senator Thomas F. Moore of Greencastle are still aggressive candidates.

FIGHT NOW OVER

Socialist Leaders In St. Petersburg Compelled to Admit Defeat.

THE EIGHT-HOUR DAY

Conservative Workmen Abandon the Strike For This End, But the Socialists Die Hard.

Labor Situation In Russia's Capital Reached Breaking Point This Morning.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 20.—After the severe reverse which they suffered early Sunday morning, when at the end of a seven-hour debate the council of workmen decided to abandon the industrial strike, the leaders of the extremist socialist faction of the St. Petersburg workmen again engaged in a hard and in the end losing fight in defense of a resolution for an eight-hour day, which was the slogan of last week's strike, but which was abandoned at the last moment in favor of an appeal for the lives of the mutineers at Cronstadt and the liberty of Poland.

When the council convened last night a socialist representative introduced an amendment to the resolution calling off the strike providing that the men in returning to work should hereafter labor only eight hours, laying down their tools at 4 o'clock in the afternoon instead of 6 o'clock, while insisting on the same rate of pay. Encouraged by their earlier victory, the conservative leaders at once opened a vigorous opposition to the resolution, pointing out the determination of the employers to regard any attempt to obtain shorter hours by revolutionary means as the signal for a lockout of the great mass of the workmen of St. Petersburg, and that they were in no position to enter on a prolonged combat of endurance at a number of orators even questioned the wisdom of an eight-hour day itself, declaring that Russia at present was not ripe for it, while others who are in sympathy with the movement for a shorter day declared that it would not be wise to fritter away their strength at this time, when a great and decisive combat in January was imminent.

The conservative leaders in the council of workmen were again victorious. At 2:55 o'clock this morning they carried a resolution against any attempt to introduce a movement for an eight-hour day.

The refusal of the affiliated organizations in the interior to respond to the call and the revolt of many of the better class of workmen here against the dictation of political agitators and walking delegates by no means represents the full measure of the real defeat of the strike movement. The strike by alienating public sympathy and opening the eyes of intelligent liberals and moderates to the fact that the first duty of the hour was to stand by the government in its efforts to tranquilize the country and to make head against the tide of socialism and revolution which was threatening in the formation of the new "law and order" party which has now sprung into formidable being.

COLON CUT OUT

A New City Will Spring Up at Canal Mouth.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The board of consulting engineers of the isthmian canal commission have decided to substitute Brussels for Paris as the meeting place of the foreign members next January. The reason for this decision is that Brussels is more conveniently situated for several of the members. The American engineer who will go to Brussels with the documents to be signed has not yet been chosen. During this week a committee of three members of the board, with General Davis as their chairman, will make a rough draft of the final report, which will then have to be worked out in detail and is expected to be ready about the end of December.

The sea-level canal, which has been voted on by the members, will have a width at the bottom of 150 feet, except in the Culebra cut, where that width will be 200 feet. The greater width in the Culebra cut is necessary to allow two ships to pass each other safely between the high tanks of the canal which will be formed by the very deep excavation.

The plan as adopted by the board would make Limon bay one of the greatest harbors in the world. Almost through the middle of the bay a breakwater will be built and a shorter breakwater will be built from San Cristobal, which is American territory, thereby leaving Colon, which belongs to the republic of Panama, outside of the American canal works. Under the plan as adopted by the board San Cristobal is expected to become the chief city on the Atlantic side of the isthmus.

The cost of the sea-level canal is estimated by the engineers at about $230,000,000. The majority of the engineers take the position that the building of the sea-level canal should not take more than fifteen years.

By fortifying your system with a reliable blood medicine. An alcoholic stimulant would do more harm than good and would leave you nearer complete prostration than ever before. With stomach and blood in good order you can fight the battle of life successfully against all odds. GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY is a famous remedy for dyspepsia, and QUEEN'S ROOT (Stillingia), has a direct action in promoting the renewal of the blood. Both of these are used in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in such a way, by skillful extraction, combination and solution without alcohol, that their best effects are secured.

Many years of actual practice convinced Dr. Pierce of the value of many native roots as medicinal agents and he went to great expense, both in time and in money, to perfect his own peculiar processes for rendering them both safe and safe for continuous use as tonic and reinforcing agents.

The enormous popularity of "Golden Medical Discovery" is due both to its scientific compounding and to the actual medicinal value of the ingredients. The publication of the names of the ingredients on the wrapper of every bottle hereafter to be sold, gives full assurance of its non-alcoholic character and removes all objection to the use of an "unknown remedy."

BURIED THE METAL

Which Had Absorbed the Bodies of Two Steel Workers.

Philadelphia, Nov. 20.—A funeral without a parallel in this city took place Sunday at the Midvale Steel works, where a forty-ton ingot of steel permeated with the flesh, blood and bones of two workmen was buried with the solemn rites of the Roman Catholic church. The workmen who were so strangely laid away were John Forkin and Joseph Gazda, two foreign-speaking laborers who met a horrible death a week ago. They were in a pit near a cupola containing many tons of molten steel. A plug gave way and 80,000 pounds of the fiery fluid poured from the cupola and overwhelmed them. The men were completely incinerated and not a trace of them or their clothing was left.

The Midvale Steel company was averse to selling the steel or using it for the purpose it was intended, and it was decided to bury it with the rites of the church to which the unfortunate men had belonged. Accordingly the forty-ton ingot, oval in shape, twenty-eight feet long, six feet wide and five feet thick, was moved last week by a traveling crane to the rear of the machine shop, where a grave ten feet deep had been made. The great mass of metal was laid in the hole and a platform built over it so that the burial service could be better performed. In the center of the platform was an opening six feet in diameter.

A great crowd sought admission to the works, but only the two sisters of Gazda who were dependent upon him for support, and about 100 workmen who were on Sunday duty were permitted to attend the services along with the officials of the company. Forkin had no relatives in this country. Among the officials was President Charles Harrah. All heads were bared and flags were lowered to half-staff, while two priests conducted the services. After the sister of Gazda had been laid away the great ingot was covered with earth and the funeral party dispersed. The grave of the men will be appropriately marked by the company.

Japan's Peaceful Victory. Tokio, Nov. 20.—The Japanese press is jubilant over the successful conclusion of the new convention with Korea whereby Japan's suzerainty is formally and firmly established over the hermit kingdom. The speedy success of the negotiations is attributed to the confidence that Marquis Ito has inspired in the emperor of Korea and his ministers. Henceforth all the foreign relations of Korea will be managed at Tokyo.

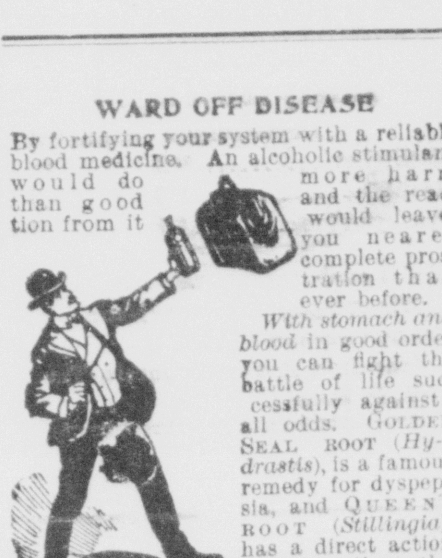

By fortifying your system with a reliable blood medicine. An alcoholic stimulant would do more harm than good and would leave you nearer complete prostration than ever before. With stomach and blood in good order you can fight the battle of life successfully against all odds. GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY is a famous remedy for dyspepsia, and QUEEN'S ROOT (Stillingia), has a direct action in promoting the renewal of the blood. Both of these are used in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in such a way, by skillful extraction, combination and solution without alcohol, that their best effects are secured.

Many years of actual practice convinced Dr. Pierce of the value of many native roots as medicinal agents and he went to great expense, both in time and in money, to perfect his own peculiar processes for rendering them both safe and safe for continuous use as tonic and reinforcing agents.

The enormous popularity of "Golden Medical Discovery" is due both to its scientific compounding and to the actual medicinal value of the ingredients. The publication of the names of the ingredients on the wrapper of every bottle hereafter to be sold, gives full assurance of its non-alcoholic character and removes all objection to the use of an "unknown remedy."

The Original LITTLE LIVER PILL. First put up by Dr. R. V. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. Little pill, little dose, but give great results in a curative way in all derangements of Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

"Common Sense Medical Adviser" will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, 603 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Go to Bed to Keep Warm.

If like the man in Omaha worth $100,000, unable to buy coal because of high prices, had to go to bed to keep themselves warm. Such cases always arouse the sympathy of everyone.

There is no need of anyone in Seymour having to go to bed to keep warm this winter. We always have, are now, and always expect to sell coal at prices within the reach of all.

Here's a statement that will be of interest to everyone in Seymour.
A ton of "Raymond City Soft Coal" will last longer, and will give more heat and satisfaction than any other kind of soft coal will. Although we are sole agents in Seymour for "Raymond City" and can charge any price we want to for it, we are selling it for only $3.75 per ton. If you can't afford to buy a whole ton at once, buy a half ton. Just think the matter over, and then telephone your orders to

MORTON'S PICTURES

Source of Revenue to the Monument Commission.

The Rev. D. R. Lucas, secretary of the Morton Monument Commission, has prepared a large number of cabinet size pictures of Governor Morton, with a short sketch of his life. These pictures are to be sold for ten cents each for the benefit of the fund that is being raised for the erection of the monument. Mrs. Nettie E. Wick, the president of the Women's Relief Corps of the State, thinks this is an excellent method of raising money for the fund, and has promised the aid of that organization in selling the souvenirs.

The last Legislature appropriated $35,000 for the planning and erection of the monument, but the members of the commission decided to try to raise additional funds by private contribution, and this is one of the methods.

The committees of the Grand Army posts throughout the State, which are soliciting funds, are now beginning to report according to Dr. Lucas, the last contribution being $31.50 from Philip Hart, of Washington, Ind., who obtained this amount from twenty-nine of the comrades of the post.

The exact location for the monument has not been definitely decided. The law provided that it shall be on the State House grounds.

Saved by Dynamite

Sometimes a flaming city is saved by dynamiting space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes, a cough hangs on so long, you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her: so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her." Strictly scientific cure for bronchitis and La Grippe. At W. F. Peter Drug Co. store, price 50 cents and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

MANSLAUGHTER.

Conviction of Charles Abbott for Killing William Cox.

The trial of Charles Abbott at Scottsburg on the charge of killing William Cox in a fight at Crothersville was brought to a close Saturday night, when he received a sentence of from ten to twenty years on the conviction of manslaughter. The jury returned the verdict after having been out for twenty six hours. About thirty witnesses had been called and the trial was one in which many took interest. Abbott is a young man and last June struck Cox a blow in a fight which began in a saloon at Crothersville, Cox was an old man and died from the effects of the blow about two weeks later. At first Abbott resisted the officers but gave up later and was brought to Brownstown, since which time the case was venued to Scott County.

In Memoriam.

Once more our Lodge is reminded of the frailty of all things earthly, and we realize anew that our day on earth are as a shadow; that man, born of woman must die.

The finger of death has touched our brother Daniel W. Dennison and he has fallen asleep. His day's work is done and he rests in peace. He walked uprightly among his fellow men and held at all times the respect of the community in which he lived. He was a faithful Old Fellow, a kind and loving husband and father and a man of sterling worth and integrity.

Therefore we do:
RESOLVED That in the death of Bro. Dennison we have lost a worthy and respected brother and the community a good citizen.

That we extend to the family of our departed brother our sincere sympathy in this dark hour of bereavement.

That our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family and also published in our daily papers.

Respectfully submitted,

THIRTY-NINE PERISH

Dreadful Lodging House Fire Occurs in Glasgow.

Glasgow, Nov. 20.—The most terrible fire that has occurred in Great Britain for many years broke out here Sunday in a cheap lodging house for men in Watson street and resulted in the loss of thirty-nine lives and the severe injury of many others.

The flames were first noticed at 6 o'clock in the morning on the fourth floor of the building, which was occupied by 330 men. An alarm was raised and the firemen responded quickly, but flames and smoke were then issuing from most of the windows on the fourth floor. An extraordinary scene was created by a procession of almost naked men rushing out of the entrance to the building, and against their frantic efforts to escape the firemen had actually to fight for admission.

Reaching the upper floors, the firemen found that the narrow passages were becoming congested with men who had dropped to the floors overcome by smoke. The fire, however, was confined to the fourth floor, and as soon as the firemen were able to get to work it was speedily extinguished. The flames had been fed by the wooden partitions, which threw off volumes of smoke, resulting in the suffocation of the inmates. Many on being brought to the street rallied in a few minutes, but others had to be taken to the hospitals.

The dead were mostly workmen in the prime of life. They presented a horrible spectacle, their blackened faces bearing evidence of terrible struggles to escape.

Many men were sleeping on the attic floor above the burning fourth floor, and these had narrow escapes. The flames burst through the floor and it was impossible for the men to descend. The windows were securely fastened and they had to break them so that they could climb through to neighboring roofs. By 10 o'clock a search of the building was made and a complete list of the victims obtained, which showed that thirty-nine were dead and thirty-two injured.

New York, Nov. 20.—Prince Louis of Battenberg's visit to New York came to an end this morning. The squadron lying in the North river got under way at 10:30 this morning and dropped down-stream to a point opposite the Cunard pier, where the Drake, having taken the admiral aboard, at the last moment joined her consorts and led the squadron down the bay and out to sea.

A Tragedy of the Sea.

Terrific Race With Death.

"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez, of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and today I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at W. F. Peter Drug Co.; price 50 cents.

Backache, "The Blues"

Both Symptoms of Organic Derangement in Women—Thousands of Sufferers Find Relief.

How often do we hear women say: "It seems as though my back would break," or "Don't speak to me, I am all out of sorts?" These significant remarks prove that the system requires attention.

Backache and "the blues" are direct symptoms of an inward trouble which will sooner or later declare itself. It may be caused by diseased kidneys or some uterine derangement. Nature requires assistance and at once, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound instantly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women. It has been the standby of intelligent American women for twenty years, and the ablest specialists agree that it is the most universally successful remedy for woman's ills known to medicine.

The following letters from Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Cotrely are among the many thousands which Mrs. Pinkham has received this year from those whom she has relieved.

Surely such testimony is convincing. Mrs. J. G. Holmes, of Larimore, North Dakota, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "I have suffered everything with backache and womb trouble—I let the trouble run until my system was in such a condition that I was unable to be about, and then it was I commenced to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If I had only known how much suffering I would have saved, I should have taken it months sooner—for a few weeks' treatment made me well and strong. My backaches and headaches are all gone and I suffer no pain at my menstrual periods, whereas before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered intense pain."

Mrs. Emma Cotrely, 109 East 12th Street, New York City, writes:

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

FREE ADVICE TO WOMEN.

Remember, every woman is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about her symptoms she does not understand. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass., her advice is free and cheerfully given to every ailing woman who asks for it. Her advice and medicine have restored to health more than one hundred thousand women.

BRONCHITIS.

The W. F. Peter Drug Co. Tell The People Quickest Means to Cure it.

Asked one day in his store the question, "What is good for bronchitis?" Mr. Peter of the above firm of well known druggists, answered, "For years old fashioned cod liver oil has been known to possess the most remarkable curative and healing properties for throat, bronchial, and lung troubles of anything known to medicine, but on account of the grease which enveloped its curative principles, it has been impossible for many people to take enough of it into their systems to combat a thoroughly settled disease without clogging the system and upsetting the stomach."

"Now, however," continued Mr. Peter, "we have Vinol which contains in a highly concentrated form all of the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cod livers, without a drop of oil or grease to upset the stomach and retard its work, and physicians agree that it is the greatest cure for all throat, bronchial and lung troubles known to medicine."

Miss Anna Ray writes us that after suffering for five years with bronchitis and trying all kinds of medicines without relief, Vinol cured her, and we have hundreds of just such letters.

We wish every person suffering from chronic colds, coughs, bronchitis, and every aged, weak, or convalescent person who needs a healing, strength-creating and blood-making tonic would try Vinol on our guarantee to return the purchase money if it fails." W. F. Peter Drug Co.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure to get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price 75 cents per bottle. S.S.S. OUR RECORD

OF CURES

With medicines as with other things, the surest test of worth is the length of time they have the confidence of the people. The efficacy of S. S. S. has been thoroughly proven by experience, and so successful has it been that today it is the best known and most widely used blood remedy in the world. For diseases such as Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, Contagious Blood Poison, and other troubles due to an impure and poisoned condition of the blood, no remedy acts so promptly and thoroughly as does S. S. S., and thousands throughout the country, cured of such diseases, are daily recommending it to others similarly afflicted. ITS FORTY YEARS OF EXISTENCE HAVE BEEN FORTY YEARS OF CURES. S. S. S. is a blood purifier of the highest order, containing properties necessary to cure blood troubles of every character, and which make it the greatest of all tonics. It goes into the blood and drives out any and all impurities, and makes this stream of life strong and healthy, and when this is done disease cannot remain. Being made entirely from roots, herbs and barks, chosen for their healing, purifying and building-up properties, it does not injure any of the delicate organs or tissues of the body as do those medicines which contain Potash, Mercury, Arsenic or other harmful minerals, but cures safely as well as permanently. S. S. S. reaches deep-seated and inherited cases on which the ordinary Sarsaparillas and tonics have no effect. It is no experiment to use S. S. S.; it is a remedy with a record; it has proven its worth and ability by its forty years of cures. If you need a blood remedy begin the use of S. S. S.; write us about your case and let our physicians advise you and send book on the blood; no charge for either.

Mme. Bernhardt Declares This Is Really Farewell Tour.

New York, Nov. 20.—In the private car Mayflower, Sarah Bernhardt left New York for Chicago last night over the New York Central railroad on a special schedule which the railroad officials say will bring her to her destination in eighteen hours. The actress and her company are booked to open in the Western city tonight in Sardou's "La Tosca".

Mme. Bernhardt and her company arrived in New York late Sunday afternoon on the French line steamer La Touraine and immediately the vessel was warped into her dock the work of unloading the baggage and scenery was begun. Two hundred and fifty trunks, a third of them belonging to Mme. Bernhardt herself, with scenery, were placed on drays and taken to the Grand Central station, where a special train of five cars was waiting to pull out for the fast run to the West.

Mme. Bernhardt was one of the first to land from the steamer and started down the pier, when she was stopped by customs officials, who insisted that a handbag containing her jewels be examined. Hundreds of people had gathered about her, and the police had to fight a way back to the examination stand. The valise was soon passed.

Mme. Bernhardt's present tour of thirty weeks includes Chicago, Pittsburgh, Washington, Baltimore and Montreal, and the actress will arrive in New York Dec. 11. Later she will visit Mexico and Cuba. Her repertoire consists of ten plays, in all of which she has been seen before. In an interview last night she said: "This is really my farewell tour of America. I love the country and will be sorry to go and not return, but I cannot help it. When I say I like this country I mean it, and the proof of that is that I am returning to it. I have made six visits to this side, and each time I have found many things which were instructive, met with many pleasures and made many friends. In 1880 I first appeared here in Booth's theater."

Death From Pin Scratch.
St. Louis, Nov. 20.—After suffering for a week from blood-poisoning, resulting from a slight scratch on the leg, Dr. Emil Pretorius, aged seventy-eight, editor-in-chief of the Westliche Post and Nestor of the German press in the West, died Sunday.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.
The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Pain in the Head

Is a danger signal, warning you that the brain nerves are exhausted—irritated, and are undergoing an unnatural strain. Frequent and prolonged attacks of pain weaken the generative power of the nerve cells of the brain, and lead to loss of memory, melancholy, spasms, epilepsy, and frequently insanity.

When the brain nerves are weakened they are unable to supply sufficient nerve force to the nerves that control the lungs, heart, stomach and other organs, and these organs are thus robbed of energy, and unable to meet the demands upon them, and they get sick. Stop the head pains with Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and the influence upon your general health will be greater than you can realize.

"I want to tell you how thankful I am for Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. From a child I have been subject to sick headaches, and never found any lasting relief until I received a sample of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills while in one of our city years ago. By taking one it usually throws off my pain, so I can go about my home duties."

REMARKABLE CASE

Howard County Veteran Refuses to Touch Big Pension Award.

HE DID HIS PLAIN DUTY

For This Reason William S. Elliott Says He Has No Right to Accept Government's Largest.

He Says Service Entitled Him No Sacrifice on His Part and He Cannot Take Reward.

Kokomo, Ind., Nov. 20.—A Howard county civil war veteran, William S. Elliott, has refused to accept an accumulated pension of $15,000. Elliott is of the old Quaker stock, and very conscientious. He said: "Christ would never accept cash premium for the performance of a plain duty, and neither will I accept a largess from the government for doing my duty in the times of the nation's peril."

"My service entailed no special sacrifice on my part, and I have no right to make my neighbors share the burdens in rewarding me."

Mr. Elliott has been besieged by an army of claim agents to accept the $15,000, but he firmly refuses to touch the money.

A DOMESTIC TRAGEDY

Jealous Wife at Anderson Shoots Her Husband's Friend.

Anderson, Ind., Nov. 20.—Accusing her husband of paying attentions to Mrs. Alice Lowman, widow of the late Dr. Joseph Lowman, Mrs. Ed Smith shot and fatally wounded Mrs. Lowman and then turned the weapon on her husband, who was sitting in a buggy in front of the Lowman home, and fled without effect. Then, realizing the gravity of her act, Mrs. Smith climbed into the buggy with her husband and together they drove to their home in Park place, where the officers placed Mrs. Smith under arrest.

The shooting, which took place in Pearl street in front of the Lowman home, is the outcome of domestic troubles which have been brewing for some time. Three bullets took effect in Mrs. Lowman's body, and the latter, staggering away a few steps, sank to the ground unconscious.

Mrs. Lowman is thirty-three years old and has a family.

A Hoosier Cyclopedic.
Connersville, Ind., Nov. 20.—It is gratifying to the friends of the author to know that "The Hoosier Encyclopedia," an interesting and helpful Indiana reference work, compiled and published by State Senator E. E. Moore of Connersville, is attracting wide attention over the state. This volume is a very complete compilation of statistical, official, historical, political and general information concerning Indiana, and seems likely to attain a large sale throughout the state.

Slot Machines Confiscated.

Marion, Ind., Nov. 20.—Three moving vans were employed in hauling slot machines from Gas City to the county jail. The machines were secured a few days ago in a raid made by the town marshal upon the Bush Alexander place at Gas City. The raid on Alexander's place followed an order of Mayor Kerr to enforce all laws pertaining to liquor violations and to gambling.

Shannon Taken at Toledo.

Goshen, Ind., Nov. 20.—Sheriff Manning has gone to Toledo for Ed Shannon, the Elkhart puglist and paroled Jeffersonville prisoner, who is wanted for robbing five Elkhart saloons, several residences and breaking into Lake Shore freight cars. A long sentence stares him in the face. He escaped the Elkhart officers a few days ago after a close chase and fled to Toledo.

Shot Victim Just for Fun.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 20.—Fred Clay, colored, was sentenced for life in the circuit court for shooting Frank Posey, also colored, last May. Clay's crime was entirely unprovoked. He shot Posey simply because a friend told him to "kill another nigger for fun." Posey was a stranger to Clay.

Will Contest Election.

Linton, Nov. 20.—Virgil Robertson, defeated Democratic candidate for mayor, has filed suit to contest the election of Mayor C. P. Riley. Robertson asserts that there were irregularities in one precinct in which fifty-five votes were cast. He was defeated by only twenty votes.

Held to Grand Jury.

Boonville, Ind., Nov. 20.—Upon the coroner's verdict, which merely states that Clarence Rhoades came to his death from a knife thrust inflicted by his brother, Argyle Rhoades, the latter will be released upon bond to await the investigation of the grand jury at its next regular session.

Madison, Ind., Nov. 20.—The jury in the case of James Shoots, indicted for the murder of John Murphy in June last, brought in a verdict of guilty, sentencing him to twenty-one years' imprisonment.
